Education for the 21st Century (E21C) is opening the school next September to Year Sevens in a bid to help meet the extra demand for school places in the area.

While a permanent site for the school is under construction, students will be based at the nearby Ravensbourne School, along Hayes Lane.

The school will provide free transport links, for both before and after school, from key points in the catchment area.

Head of The Beckenham Academy, Emily Codling, says: "I'm very excited about being able to offer this new choice for Year 7 students in the Beckenham area."

An open week is being held at the Ravensbourne School from next week (October 19 - 22) from 9-10am.

There are 180 places available at the new premises, and the deadline for applications is October 31.

Parents must also must also apply to Bromley Council for other schools by this date, but to apply directly for TBA and for more information email: KLee@ravensbourne.info.
